Little Lesson in Parliamentary Practice Given by Representative Tolton.

POPULAR MEASURE TABLED

BILL IS SAVED BY TWO WISE LEGISLATORS.

Representative Tolton gave a quiet lit-table the amendment. Speaker Joseph announced that the bill itself was tabled and the primary school in parliamentary law was stricken dumb. Mr. Thompson and Mr. Sutton came to the rescue, however, having voted for the resolution, and gave notice of a motion to reconsider.

House Rule Changed.

On the report of the schate bill by Walton, to reimburse Albert L. Eastman, sheriff of Rich county, in the sum of $1.500. Mr. Thompson again raised the question of reference to the committee on appropriations and succeeded in getting through an amendment to rule 16, whereby the ruling of the speaker is made to conform with the practice in previous sessions. The speaker has been referring all bills reported from the committee on claims to the committee of Rejects Thirteenth Bill Offered at Day's Session.

Twelve bills fell into the house hopper stitutional amendment. A thirteenth bill was offered, but Speaker Joseph, being of a superstitious turn of mind, found a technical objection to it and thus saved the house from a horrible fate. The bills were as follows:

Speaker Joseph at the opening of the session explained his connection with the Marks incident of the day before, saying that he had not instructed the sergeant-at-arms to arrest Mr. Marks, nor had that official done so. The speaker said he was aware that the arrest of a member could only be ordered by fifteen or more members of the house. As Mr. Marks' absence had been noted by several members, he merely sent the sergeant-at-arms with a request to Mr. Marks for his attendance.

Mr. Thompson suggested that such incidents could be avoided by sending a messenger instead of the sergeant-at-arms and the incident closed.

H. B. I. by Jenson, reported as passed by the senate with amendments, was taken up, the amendments concurred in and the hill finally passed.

H. B. T. by Pederson, relating to marriage, was favorably reported by the judiciary committee, with amendments striking out "epileptics" from the list of numarriageable persons, which was the main purpose of the bill. Other amendments were suggested and the bill took the regular order.
